NOVESTRA: COMMENTS FROM THE AGM

“The development among the portfolio companies has been generally positive during the last three years, even though growth rate slowed down during 2006. The growth is expected to continue during 2007 in most cases at or above the levels of 2006. Novestra currently sees greater potential than risk among the portfolio companies and there is an opportunity for a positive value development during the coming year.

The management has during the first quarter of 2007 evaluated a transaction that if concluded could become a new business area for Novestra. A decision regarding such a transaction is dependent on what the board of directors decides regarding the remainder of the portfolio, for example a possible consolidation of Diino.

Novestra has during the spring of 2007 also received proposals regarding the sale of the entire or parts of its portfolio. The board of directors currently believes that it will be more advantageous for the shareholders to divest the portfolio companies individually.” Says the CEO of Novestra, Johan Heijbel at today’s AGM.
